Chesterton Primary School Behaviour Policy

At Chesterton Primary School, there is an expectation of outstanding behaviour.

Intent

- We want every child to learn and thrive in a clean, organised and calm environment.
- We want every child to become an independent learner.
- We expect positive attitudes.
- We promote respect for all.

Our school expectations set out a clear focus on respect, safety and effort. These are:

- We are safe
- We treat other people how we want to be treated
- We try our best
- We tell the truth

Implementation

Good behaviour is fundamental to children feeling safe and accessing learning.

ClassDojo is the behaviour (traffic light) system used and displayed in the classroom as well as communicated with parents in real time.

Children stay on 'green' throughout the day unless poor behaviour is shown. Children are not limited to a set amount of dojos: they are given by the teacher to motivate, celebrate, reward helpfulness and support a positive attitude to learning as children begin to develop new skills.

Children are rewarded with positive dojos for their efforts which are recorded on their 'classroom emoji.' These are collated over the school week and a range of rewards are given during the 'Time to Celebrate Assembly' and in the classroom to recognise contributions.

We recognise emotions are a precursor of behaviour and adults in school will offer guidance for behaviour and appropriate support will be given.

If inappropriate behaviour continues, an 'amber dojo' will be issued. This is a visual warning and is not be recorded. Pupils in Years 5 and 6 will miss five minutes of their break time as a consequence. Children will return to green on display of desirable behaviours.

Chesterton Primary School Behaviour Policy

A child will be given negative 'red' dojos if they are not following the school expectations. Undesirable behaviour will not be tolerated or excused.

Negative 'red' dojos will be given instantly in the following circumstances:

- Failure to rectify behaviour following an 'amber' warning
- Not following instructions
- Being disrespectful
- Engaging in dangerous behaviours

Consequences of Red dojo

Once a child has received a red dojo, they miss their break time. A child in KS1 will miss five minutes. A child in KS2 will miss 15 minutes.

Consequences for continued negative behaviours

If the pupil continues to behave inappropriately, affecting the learning of others, and does not respond to the red dojo, they may be guided away from other children; the adult will make an informed judgement about whether the child should remain in the classroom. If the child is not responsive and the poor behaviour continues, they will be sent to another space/classroom with an agreed arrangement between the teachers. If there is no improvement from the opportunities given, a member of the senior leadership team will be called. The senior leader will make a decision based on the response of the child and the circumstances:

1. Discuss the behaviour with the pupil and support them back to their class if the situation is resolved or locate the child in another area to work for the rest of the session.
2. Contact the pupil's parent to discuss the pupil's behaviour if their behaviour continues.
3. Arrange a teacher/parent meeting to discuss the pupil's behaviour if there are continuous concerns.
4. Pupil may be placed on a Behaviour Record that requires daily reporting to senior leaders.
5. Class suspension where a pupil will spend the day out of their usual classroom.

Fixed Term Suspension/Permanent Exclusion:

On occasions, it may be appropriate to send a child home on a fixed term suspension. The headteacher will be responsible for making this decision. A fixed term suspension will involve a meeting with the parent on collection of the child from school and on the child's return to school. A letter will be issued with the reasons for the suspension.

Children will be suspended for behaviour that risks the safety of children and adults.

Chesterton Primary School Behaviour Policy

A PSP (Pastoral Support Plan) may be considered to support the child over a fixed period of time (12 weeks) or a managed move (this would be discussed with parents and arranged with another local school).

For very serious incidents or breaches of the policy, either as a one off serious breach or persistent disruption, it may be necessary for the headteacher to make a decision to permanently exclude a child. If this is the case the decision will be put before a committee of Governors.

Impact

ClassDojo helps teachers and parents to work together to support children. Class Dojo is a reward system which encourages positive and respectful behaviours.

Children have the right to express their feelings but this must be in a safe and appropriate way. All staff show understanding to the emotions of children and accept that guidance is often needed. This is always done in a thoughtful and positive manner.

Policy Review:

*Annex Below

The following areas of the policy are taken from and/or amended from the DfE Behaviour and Discipline (pages 8 to 14)

Discipline in schools – teachers' powers:

Key Points

Teachers have statutory authority to discipline pupils whose behaviour is unacceptable, who break the school rules or who fail to follow a reasonable instruction (Section 90 and 91 of the Education and Inspections Act 2006).

The power also applies to all paid staff with responsibility for pupils, such as teaching assistants.

Teachers can discipline pupils at any time the pupil is in school or elsewhere under the charge of a teacher, including on school visits.

Teachers can also discipline pupils in certain circumstances when a pupil's misbehaviour occurs outside of school.

Teachers have a power to impose detention outside school hours.

Staff can confiscate pupils' property.

Punishing poor behaviour - What the law allows:

Teachers can discipline pupils whose conduct falls below the standard which could reasonably be expected of them. This means that if a pupil misbehaves, breaks a school rule or fails to follow a reasonable instruction the teacher or member of support staff with teaching responsibility can impose a punishment on that pupil.

To be lawful, the punishment (including detentions) must satisfy the following three conditions:

- 1) The decision to punish a pupil must be made by a paid member of school staff or a member of staff authorised by the headteacher;
- 2) The decision to punish the pupil and the punishment itself must be made on the school premises or while the pupil is under the charge of the member of staff; and
- 3) It must not breach any other legislation (for example in respect of disability, special educational needs, race and other equalities and human rights) and it must be reasonable in all the circumstances.

A punishment must be proportionate. In determining whether a punishment is reasonable, section 91 of the Education and Inspections Act 2006 says the penalty must be reasonable in all the circumstances and that account must be taken of the pupil's age, any special educational needs or disability they may have, and any religious requirements affecting them.

The headteacher may limit the power to apply particular punishments to certain staff and/or extend the power to discipline to adult volunteers, for example to parents who have volunteered to help on a school trip.

Corporal punishment is illegal in all circumstances.

The school will consider whether the behaviour under review gives cause to suspect that a child is suffering, or is likely to suffer, significant harm. Where this may be the case, school staff should follow the schools' safeguarding policy. The school will also consider whether continuing disruptive behaviour might be the result of unmet educational or other needs. At this point, the school will consider whether a multi-agency assessment is necessary.

Behaviour and sanctions

Chesterton Primary School Behaviour Policy

Our clear school behaviour policy, consistently and fairly applied, underpins effective education. School staff, pupils and parents must all be clear of the high standards of behaviour expected of all pupils at all times. The behaviour policy is supported and backed-up by Governors, senior staff and the head teacher.

Our school encourages good behaviour through a mixture of high expectations, clear policy and an ethos which fosters discipline and mutual respect between pupils, and between staff and pupils.

We have in place a range of options and rewards to reinforce and praise good behaviour, and clear sanctions for those who do not comply with the school's behaviour policy. These will be proportionate and fair responses that may vary according to the age of the pupils, and any other special circumstances that affect the pupil.

When poor behaviour is identified, sanctions should be implemented consistently and fairly in line with the behaviour policy. We have a range of disciplinary measures clearly communicated to school staff, pupils and parents. These include:

- A verbal reprimand.
- Extra work or repeating unsatisfactory work until it meets the required standard.
- The setting of written tasks as punishments, such as a letter of apology or writing the school rules.
- Loss of privileges – for instance the loss of a prized responsibility or not being able to participate in a non-uniform day.
- Missing break time.
- Detention including during lunch-time, and after school.
- School based community service or imposition of a task – such as picking up litter or weeding school grounds; tidying a classroom; helping clear up the dining hall after meal times; or removing graffiti.
- Regular reporting including early morning reporting; scheduled uniform and other behaviour checks; or being placed “on report” for behaviour monitoring.
- In more extreme cases schools may use class exclusions, temporary or permanent exclusion.

Pupils' conduct outside the school gates – teachers' powers

What the law allows:

Teachers have the power to discipline pupils for misbehaving outside of the school premises "to such an extent as is reasonable"

Teachers may discipline pupils for non-criminal bad behaviour and bullying which occurs off the school premises and which is witnessed by a staff member or reported to the school.

Punishments may be imposed on pupils for misbehaviour when the pupil is:

- taking part in any school-organised or school-related activity or
- travelling to or from school or
- wearing school uniform or
- in some other way identifiable as a pupil at the school.

or misbehaviour at any time, whether or not the conditions above apply, that:

- could have repercussions for the orderly running of the school or
- poses a threat to another pupil, member of staff or member of the public or
- could adversely affect the reputation of the school.

In all cases of misbehaviour, the teacher can only discipline the pupil on school premises or elsewhere when the pupil is under the lawful control of the staff member.

Detention

What the law allows:

Our school policy gives teachers the power to issue detention to pupils (including detention outside of school hours) as a sanction.

The times outside normal school hours when detention can be given (the 'permitted day of detention') include:

- a. any school day where the pupil does not have permission to be absent; and
- b. non-teaching days – usually referred to as 'INSET days'.

The Headteacher, or the Deputy Headteacher in the long term absence of the Headteacher, can authorise after-school detentions if deemed appropriate. Detentions within school time can be imposed by all teaching staff and support staff with teaching responsibility.

Matters schools should consider when imposing detentions

Parental consent is not required for detentions within the school day.

After-school detentions require parents to be informed of the school's actions

As with any disciplinary penalty a member of staff must act reasonably given all the circumstances, when imposing a detention.

With lunchtime detentions, staff should allow reasonable time for the pupil to eat, drink and use the toilet.

Detentions outside school hours

The school will not issue a detention where they know that doing so would compromise a child's safety. When ensuring that a detention outside school hours is reasonable, staff issuing the detention will consider the following points:

- Whether the detention is likely to put the pupil at risk.
- Whether the pupil has known caring responsibilities which mean that the detention is unreasonable.
- Whether the parents ought to be informed of the detention. In many cases it will be necessary to do so, but this will depend on the circumstances. For instance, notice may not be necessary for a short after school detention where the pupil can get home safely; and
- Whether suitable travel arrangements can be made by the parent for the pupil. It does not matter if making these arrangements is inconvenient for the parent.

Confiscation of inappropriate items - What the law allows:

There are two sets of legal provisions which enable school staff to confiscate items from pupils:

1) The general power to discipline (as described in the bullets under the heading "Discipline in Schools – Teachers' Powers" on pages 3 and 4 of Behaviour and Discipline in schools) enables a member of staff to confiscate, retain or dispose of a pupil's property as a punishment, so long as it is reasonable in the circumstances. The law protects the school from liability for damage to, or loss of, any confiscated items provided they have acted lawfully.

Power to search without consent for "prohibited items" includes:

- knives and weapons
- alcohol
- illegal drugs
- stolen items
- tobacco and cigarette papers
- lighters and matches
- fireworks
- pornographic images
- any article that has been or is likely to be used to commit an offence, cause personal injury or damage to property; and
- any item banned by the school rules which has been identified in the rules as an item which may be searched for e.g. mobile phones.

The legislation sets out what must be done with prohibited items found as a result of a search.

Weapons and knives, drugs and extreme or child pornography must always be handed over to the police, otherwise it is for the teacher to decide if and when to return a confiscated item or whether the items must be collected by the child's parent or carer.

More detailed advice on confiscation and what must be done with prohibited items found as a result of a search is provided in 'Screening, Searching and Confiscation – advice for head teachers, staff and governing bodies'. See Associated Resources section below for a link to this document.

Power to use reasonable force

Members of staff have the power to use reasonable force to prevent pupils committing an offence, injuring themselves or others, or damaging property, and to maintain good order and discipline in the classroom.

Head teachers and authorised school staff may also use such force as is reasonable given the circumstances when conducting a search without consent for knives or weapons, alcohol, illegal drugs, stolen items, tobacco and cigarette papers, fireworks, pornographic images or articles that have been or could be used to commit an offence or cause harm – this must always be conducted in the presence of a member of senior staff.

Separate advice is available in 'Use of Reasonable Force – advice for school leaders, staff and governing bodies'. See Associated Resources section below for a link to this document.

Use of Isolation

In extreme circumstances disruptive pupils to be placed in isolation away from other pupils for a limited period.

As with other disciplinary penalties, schools must act lawfully, reasonably and proportionately in all cases. Any separate room should only be used when it is in the best interests of the child, and other pupils. Any use of isolation that prevents a child from leaving a room of their own free will should only be considered in exceptional circumstances and if it reduces the risk presented by the child to themselves and others. The school must also ensure the health and safety of pupils and any requirements in relation to safeguarding and pupil welfare.

It is for the Headteacher to decide how long a pupil should be kept in isolation and for the staff member in charge to determine what pupils may and may not do during the time they are there. Schools should ensure that pupils are kept in isolation no longer than is necessary and that their time spent there is used as constructively as possible. The school must allow pupils time to eat or use the toilet.
